

CME on World Zoonoses Day

The Department of Veterinary Public Health and Epidemiology, Veterinary College, Hebbal, Bengaluru, under Karnataka Veterinary, Animal and Fisheries Sciences University (KVAFSU), Bidar, in association with the Indian Association of Preventive and Social Medicine-, Karnataka State Chapter (IAPSM-KSC), successfully organized CME on World Zoonoses Day – 2026 on 6th July 2026 at Dr. R. D. Nanjaiah Hall, Veterinary College, Bengaluru..

The event was presided over by Prof. Dr. R. Nagaraja, Dean, Veterinary College, Bengaluru, and coordinated by Dr. Leena G., Head, Department of Veterinary Public Health and Epidemiology. Dr. Hamsa, Joint Secretary of IAPSM- KSC had the privilege of attending the programme as the Chief Guest and Speaker.

Around 150 participants, including the Dean, Heads of Departments, University representatives, faculty members, undergraduate and postgraduate students, attended the programme. The event was exceptionally well organized and featured highly informative and engaging scientific sessions focusing on One Health, zoonotic disease prevention, surveillance, community participation, and emerging technologies in zoonoses control. The active participation and insightful discussions reflected the commitment of the veterinary and public health fraternity towards strengthening intersectoral collaboration for preventing zoonotic diseases.

